Foreword

The 1968 yearbook staff has come to know this edition of the Echo very well. It has been ours for almost a year. We now present it to you, the students of Buckeye Central High School.

This book has been produced as an accurate and interesting account of the year's events. To the graduating seniors it represents the finale of four wonderful years; to the juniors, a remembrance of one of the most hectic years in school; to the sophomores, a record of their efforts, culminating in the achievement of the coveted privileges of upperclassmen; to the freshmen, a memory of the awesome newness of high school.

We hope that our attempt to record the happiness, the trials, and the frustrations of the past year has been successful and that you will find this Echo a true memento to Buckeye Central High School.

ROW FOUR: Tom Rietschlin, Herbert Karl, Rhonda Seibert, Joyce Springer, James Nye, Raymond Studer, Gerald Stacklin.

Student Council

The Student Council, besides sponsoring the usual dances and assemblies, planned the first football homecoming, complete with mums. They bought a popcorn popper for basketball games, held a clothing drive, and bought the science fair trophies. For the first time this year, they bought scholarship, citizenship, and leadership awards. Money was also earned to secure a most convenient paper and pencil machine for the school.

In the selection of State Farmer Degree Candidate there is an application book which must be completed and accompanied by the applicants record books of all projects completed. These are sent to the spring evaluation meeting of the district vocational agriculture teachers. These teachers evaluate the applicants on: Opportunity, Agricultural Experience Program, Scholarship, and, Record Books. If applicants are accepted on the district level, they are then forwarded to the state department for final approval.

The requirements for American Farmer are very much the same, only much more extensive. Burton hopes to attain this high distinction in October at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City.

Agriculture Business

The Agriculture department has this year initiated a new program of study titled Agriculture Business and Service. It is a cooperative venture between the high school Vo. Ag. department, agriculture business and service organizations, and interested senior students. The purpose of the program is to provide on-the-job training in an actual agriculture business.

These students have their academic classes in the morning, followed by the Ag. business-related class where they do the technical aspects of their jobs and of agriculture in general. These students are then released at 1:25 to go to their stations where they will receive on-the-job training.

Two girls from the Local F.H.A. chapter received their State Degrees this year. Linda Hoehn and Susan Schroeder had to complete requirements which showed growth as an individual, as a member of the home, the school, the community and their chapter. They must also help further explain home economics and F.H.A. to others.

Mary Young is the local Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. This is a national contest for high school senior girls which is based on general knowledge of homemaking skills.

Patty Horning—Miss F.H.A.

As a part of F.H.A. week activities, the girls designed original formals from ordinary bed sheets. The winners of the contest were: Kathy Wurm — Freshman, Linda Hiler—Sophomore, Patty Horning —Finalist, Frieda Van Buskirk—Junior, Wilma Alspach—Senior.

Health care for B.C.'s students begins before kindergarten at a pre-school clinic. Students are made to feel that their health is an important consideration to the school.

In line with the early discovery and correction of any deficiency, students are vision, hearing, and Tbc. tested.

Home visitations are made in cases of accidents or prolonged illness. Also health and immunization records are kept.

There has been a 100% record of our graduates continuing in this field of their choice.

Mr. Crane is a musical comedy in two acts, with its setting in the Sleepy Hollow School for Girls. Kathy Van Tassel, an attractive young music teacher, is pursued by Mr. Tom Bones, the physical education instructor. Ike Crane, the new dancing instructor. Jealous of Mr. Crane, Tom Bones begins scheming with a village boy to rid the school of this social onslaught. In the meantime, Miss Van Tassel falls in love with Mr. Crane and they live happily ever after in the legend of Sleepy Hollow.

"Say it, Ike, which member of the faculty?"

"For a teacher, I might even do this for free."

"I know I'm handsome!"
